A Day with The Seeds
of Vandana Shiva

„A Day with the Seeds of Vandana Shiva“ is a tribute to the Indian scientist and activist Dr. Vandana Shiva, a tribute to her deep connection to nature and to her lifelong commitment to agriculture and food, to free seeds and biodiversity, and in particular to women. Last fall, to mark her 70th birthday, her biography and a new film premiered. We are pleased to continue the tribute to her work with our day event, to present the film and to invite to a great open conversation with the audience.

This conversation aims to create connections between people with different attitudes who are working and thinking with and on the vitality of the earth. The issues are urgent, from the expiring GenTech moratorium and the new technologies that are already creating „faits accomplis“ under the radar to the need to negotiate regenerative agriculture with the entire political spectrum. This time of change is about sharing and empowerment, about connections, about information and inspiration. And about friendship. With each other and with the Earth.
